

I felt deep comfort in the protection I received from the Indiana Telephone Privacy law. I work nights and have a baby at home with me during the day. Before being place on the Indiana Telephone Privacy law list, I was constantly annoyed with non-stop telemarketing calls that would not only take my time away from my child, but also would awake me and my child during nap time. I work late hours during the week and I really don't need my telephone ringing all day. I would much rather spend quality time with my child during the day. I strongly urge the FCC to not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Thank you for your consideration
